

Tomato season will always remind me of Edna Wethy and her love of tomatoes. Every season I made sure that she got part of the first and last tomato picking and every week in between. In honor of Edna, I challenge each of you to think of our stay-at-home fresh produce lovers and pick extra to share with them.

This week in the garden we have the following ready for picking:

East Garden

First two Beds next to the Church: Potatoes

3rd Bed from the Church: Beets

South Garden

Beds 4 and 5: Peppers (Hot and Sweet)

Beds 6,7, and 8: Green and maybe some Red Tomatoes

Bed 10: Eggplant

Beds 16 and 17: Kale.

Bed 18: Swiss Chard

Along the Edges of Many of the Beds: Green onions.
